

time frame, you will find yourself much better equipped to make decisions on what content to put out there next. It's really the smart thing to do.

After the Algorithm

Building an audience for yourself and keeping them coming, is actually just the tip of the iceberg. Much like the initial levels of every FPS marvel, you're expected to do this right. It is only after you traverse this path well, that you get to make some of the more interesting, and rather fun choices about how to maximise the dollars you can churn from this audience.

Read on further to dive deeper into the enigma of live-game streaming, and see what the future holds for you. 