FreeBSD File Extraction

Each step of the installation process is shown to you on the screen through a progress bar.

Post-installation options

The first step after the installation is setting the password. While you are typing, the password will not be shown on the screen, but you can confirm that you have typed in the password correctly the first time when it asks you to retype the password for confirmation. Try not to typo your own password twice in exactly the same way, or else you will be locked out! ;-)

Next, you can set the local time and the time zone in which you are operating. You proceed by first selecting a region and a country. This is
