

Gv Finance Application

Based on ghostviews, Gv is an amazing PDF viewer with superior UI using the Xaw3d widget. Gv applications are full of integrated features that include anti-aliasing, scale, orientation, and so on. Gv works smoothly with a mouse or keyboard for a highly productive viewing.

Here is the syntax to install the gv application using this system.

- `# pkg install gv`

And the following code allows to install Gv application using the Ports method by compiling source code on the system:

- `# cd /usr/ports/print/gv`
- `# make install clean`

Geeqie

Geeqie represents a famous image manager application with incredible features for your FreeBSD operating system and was forked from the GQView project that further aids UI in every aspect. It has numerous spectacular features such as thumbnail previews, external editor, file management, full screen viewing, slideshow editor, and ease of managing multiple images and removes duplicate files.

Here is the code to start using the Geeqie application on your system:

- `# pkg install geeqie`

And the following code will give you the option to install this application using the Ports Collection by compiling source code:

- `# cd /usr/ports/graphics/geeqie`
- `# make install clean`

ePDFView

ePDFView is another highly useful PDF application that has excellent features built on using poppler and GK+ libraries. Incredible support for printing, saving document copies, and opening almost all types of PDF files, including encrypted ones, makes it the perfect choice for enhancing your user experience.

Here is the syntax code to start using ePDFView on your FreeBSD system:

- `# pkg install epdfview`

Here is your code to install this PDF application using the ports collection method:

- `# cd /usr/ports/graphics/epdfview`
- `# make install clean`