

Discord server allows users to replace the default alias tag by selecting the 'Alias' box present right next to custom emoji and after typing the new name. Once the file is uploaded, emoji images can be used right after the discord server process. If you want to remove it later, you have to simply hover it in the emoji list and then click the red 'X' sign present at the top for deleting the file. After this step, the selected emoji will be promptly removed from your discord server.

Learn how to add Discord custom emoji on iPhone, iPad or Android

Just like Windows and Mac Discord applications, server administrators who use this platform on iPhone iPad, or Android devices can upload emoji from the same menu. It is because the interface of discord is similar across multiple platforms, and this step will work well for Apple and Android devices. First, you have to open this card application on your device or tablet to access your server.

- In the open channel, you have to select the hamburger menu present at the top left. It will open the channel and server list for the discord platform.
- Now you have to tap on the 3 dot menu present on the top to proceed
- In the popup discord server menu, you have to select settings for accessing your Discord server settings
- Click on 'emoji' in the server settings menu for accessing your custom emoji settings

Just like Mac and desktop applications, various requirements for emojis will also appear in the emoji menu. Now you can see emoji files that you want to upload on your server. If you want to crop the picture, then you can tap on 'Crop' and upload directly if you do not want to crop.

Once the custom emoji file is uploaded on the server, you can tap on it to replace the alias tag. This step will take you to the settings area for the uploaded emoji. In the 'Alias' box, you have to type a new name. This name will be the tag that is used to add custom emojis to the messages. Now you can save an icon at the bottom right of your screen to save your new tag. The changes in the alias of your custom emoji will be immediately applied. If you are willing to delete the emoji, you can tap on the 3 dot menu present at the top right of your screen of the emoji settings. In the drop-down menu, you can click on 'delete emoji'.

Add custom emoji to Discord server channel names

If you have recently joined any Discord server, you might have observed