

- <https://www.Discordservers.com/> - It is one of the most popular listing websites that will also allow you to provide a small description of your server. This improves your chances to show up on someone's server.
- <http://dgit.in/carbonitex> - This website is great when it comes to keeping stats. It can store all the statistical data of your server, including activity, members, messages, and much more. This will help you to keep an eye on everything, even when you are not online.

Conclusion

You are now well aware of things that you have to do, can do, and those that you need to avoid while using Discord. It is one of the best applications, and when you get a hold of it, things become way better. Here, you not only connect with your friends, but also with strangers who share the same interests as you. There are a lot of features to explore in this application or software.

Discord has been an awesome platform for many users, and the same can be with you if you follow the rules and work the way it works. Make sure you assign the roles, never give free points, don't lure people with bad ways, and never abuse or let others do it. You not only enjoy chatting and video calling on this platform rather get on the platform to enjoy good games with your close friends. 