

So it was natural for us to bring out a FastTrack around setting up your own Discord community and growing it to enable people with similar interests to discover each other. We start with the basics of setting up a fresh Discord server, adding text and voice channels, throwing in custom emojis and setting up rules for all the channels in your server. We then look at Discord's vast and powerful array of bots, many of which are made by community members, and how they can really level up your server. And then we move into the practical steps that you can take to grow your community.

It very much seems like Discord is here to stay and is already shaping up to be the social platform of the future. We hope that this FastTrack gives you enough information to get a headstart in setting up and fostering a great community.

As always, we're open to feedback regarding this FastTrack and if you have any suggestions for future FastTracks, feel free to shoot us an email on editor@digit.in or even better, drop into our Discord server and talk to the editors directly. Here's the link - <https://discord.gg/Ets89aU>
