

characteristics of their audience. This is where the Community Insights on Discord prove to be absolutely invaluable. The reports generated by the insights dashboard take into account vital parameters like new member traffic sources and community demographics which subsequently put businesses in a better position to infer the personality, behavioural, as well as sentimental characteristics of their community members. This is among the foremost reasons why individuals and businesses are opting for Discord as their platform of choice for kickstarting and developing community engagement activities and exercises.

Understanding community insights is crucial to driving community engagement

Navigating through community demographics

The demographic of your community is a nugget of information that is most readily available on the Discord platform. Hosts need to open the Audience tab of the Server Insights to make themselves privy to this information. However, they must bear in mind the fact that this tab does not allow them to view the demographic information of all the members on their server. Instead, it only lets them access the information of all those who have either visited the server or one of the channels within the server at least once within the previous 28 days. The information is presented in the nature of a snapshot and contains data about the member's Discord account age, their country of origin, and the details of the devices through which they
