Sending Party Invite Messages

Millions of users initiate their gaming session on Discord every day and jump into a game instantly. By aligning with its 'Join application' programming interface, users can send party invites directly through the platform. There is no more waiting around with the applicable codes and reading each member one by one. In fact, users can directly send party invite messages to their friends.

Launch Your Game

Just like party invites, Discord also enhances user engagement by allowing gamers to request an invite right through the platform. After receiving the confirmation, gamers can enjoy together during their gaming session.

Launch Spectate Gaming Mode

You can use the 'spectator mode' to watch your friend's gameplay on the Discord platform. Users can easily add this button to their profile so that their friends can also watch them with just a single click. Gamers are allowed to send a spectate code invite to the chat channel of their choice.
