

Stacer

System optimiser apps are pretty helpful in running all kinds of platforms smoothly. Stacer is one such system optimiser app created to enhance your PC's performance. The Stacer application has many great features to refresh your device's system whenever you feel the need to do so. The app works exceptionally well on Linux PCs. It includes features such as a start-up monitor, a real-time system resource monitor, the ability to clean app caches, the ability to start system services, and the option to delete apps.

Stacer combines the functionality of Bleachbit and System Monitor into a single app with a significant user-friendly design providing you with a highly seamless experience. Stacer has a very sophisticated look; its dashboard has five tabs that help you navigate through its different features and functionalities. Stacer undoubtedly is one of the best system optimiser apps out there and is highly recommended by most of its users.

App/site link: <https://oguzhaninan.github.io/Stacer-Web/>