

Dropzone

Dropzone is a productivity tool designed for macOS devices. Instead of opening a new window, it becomes a part of your macOS menu bar. Dropzone speeds up and simplifies the process of copying and moving files, opening programs, and sharing data with a variety of services. Dropzone has a robust scripting API, allowing you to change existing actions or develop completely new ones with little programming experience.

Dropzone now has limitless extensibility and usefulness. Drop Bar is a completely new feature in Dropzone 3 that allows you to easily save files you know you'll need later. Simply drop files on the target, and they will remain there until you are ready to utilize them. You may even stack groups of files and then drop them into a Dropzone action or another app. Although Apple has improved its drag-and-drop capability throughout the last ten versions of Mac OS X, Dropzone offers capabilities that neither Apple nor other programs have created.
