

Todoist

Todoist is one of the first apps you should need if you have to sync from macOS to Windows, Android, or any other platform. It offers a plethora of sophisticated task management capabilities that are buried just under the surface. Notifications, a menu bar icon, and a Today widget are among the basic Mac features. There's also a universal keyboard shortcut for rapidly adding tasks, which is reason enough for Todoist users to download the Mac app. It's a simple but powerful to-do list app that has been named best-in-class by famous publications like Forbes.

Over 25 million individuals have used Todoist to manage their work and lives since 2007, accomplishing over two billion tasks. Todoist connects with Zapier, so you can have tasks created in Todoist anytime anything occurs in one of your favourite applications. It is free, but certain features, like labels and attachments, require membership beginning at $3 per month.
