

ANDROID APPS

Swap out the defaults for these

With the world mostly on Android devices, every company wants Android users to switch to their apps. So much that a lot of money changes hands just to ensure that these apps are installed on your new phones by default. A new android phone is chock-full of these pre-installed apps and a good chunk of them can be called bloatware. They do nothing but slow down your new phone. Some phone manufacturers even bake some apps into the ROM itself. So what's your alternative? You can check out these apps which will easily handle most tasks that you'd want to with ease. Some of these apps are even more capable than multiple default apps put together.
