

Done

Many applications can help you build concentration, manage, and complete your work. One such application for iOS users is Done, a complete solution for all your work-related problems. This application has a host of features, including easy communication with your team, creating to-do lists, inviting people for meetings, and sharing all the important files; all of this directly from your conversations. It also lets you integrate all your calendars so that you can plan your workday effectively with your teammates.

In addition to all these interesting features, Done allows you to receive and check tasks assigned to your colleagues and team members. You get all the important updates and notifications on your app well in time. The app is available everywhere and works in sync for providing a better working experience. Apart from this, you can track your daily things such as your sleeping pattern, eating habits and so on.
