

The tutorial on the app and this Fast Track edition are both follow along instructionals, so it's optimal to actual do this along with the After Effects rather than just flipping through the pages to make it more interactive. The tutorial simplifies one with a 5 step process:

- Creating a Composition
- Organising the Composition
- Animating the Layers
- Adding a Visual Effect
- Exporting the Composition

And because it's an in-built tutorial, we don't really need to save everything along the way, After Effects will do it for us and progress from each step will be carried forward into the next one.

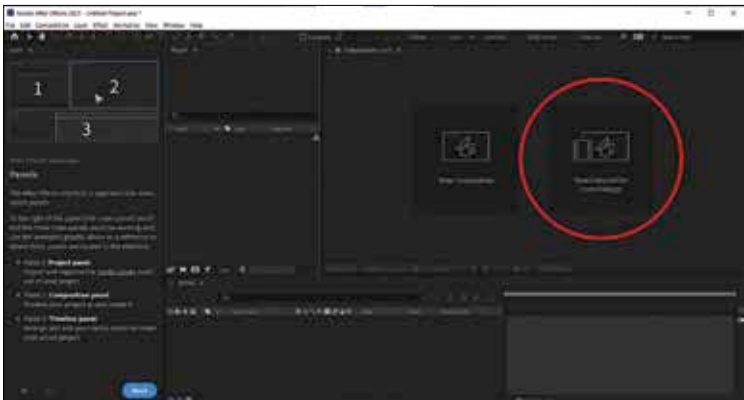

1) Creating a Composition

A Composition is one of the most basic elements of AE. It's all about creating compositions and playing around with them – compositing, combining and various other elements like audio, video, text, sounds, etc.

The first step of any project is importing the media that you want to work with and creating a composition.

- In the 'Composition' panel → 'New Composition From Footage'. This is one of the two options blatantly visible in the center of this panel.

Adobe has already included two files to supplement our learning. After selecting the 'APEAK_Logo.ai' file which is Adobe Illustrator file, under the

Importing a New Footage as a Composition to work with