

left end of the bar and the ending time on the right end of the bar.

We're going to make the time bars of all the elements the same to make working with it easier. Let's start with the logo text 'APEAK'.

TIP: Hold the "SHIFT" key while dragging to align the bars perfectly.

Repeat this process with the logo element. A word of caution – holding the SHIFT key before selecting the layer is similar to the normal computer function of selecting multiple objects at the same time and this won't give the desired effect. Be careful to first selecting the element's time bar and then pressing SHIFT to make sure it's perfectly in line with the other elements.

Compare with the previous image to see how the time bars of the different elements have changed are uniform now

Now we have perfectly trimmed video lengths for all the different layers. The point at which a colour bar starts is the point at which it will start playing in the video (in the Composition panel). The starting position can be adjusted to determine when it will start playing. We are going to delay the logo text APEAK by dragging it's time bar and a smidgen to the right.

TIP: To mark the 1 second mark as a reference, a small blue marker is placed to identify it.

'SPACEBAR' key is used to play the composition (video + logo + logo text in this case) in the Composition panel to preview the changes from the beginning.

'SPACEBAR' is also used to pause the video at any point if you feel like it. (Pretty sure there's a shortcut to figure out how to playback from the beginning but we'll figure it out as it goes).
