

All the customisable options are accessible both on the Effect Controls panel and on the Timeline panel as of yet, because we still haven't added the key frames yet. You can see 2 effects under the Summer_Forest layer in the timeline panel. The Mirror Effect is much less complicated as it has only 2 features under it.

This time we'll be using the Effect Controls panel to adjust the setting. From the image you can see that this panel gives us a bit more control than the timeline panel. The timeline panel gives us only numerical options to manipulate the effects to our will but in the Effect Controls panel, you can

The Effects have properties that are accessible in both the Effect Controls panel as well as the timeline panel. But while the timeline panel only allows modifying numerical data, the Effect Controls panel has more flexibility in terms of options where we can select specific details like the mirror effect reflection centre in the preview pane directly.
