

In the composition panel, you can see that the video is being previewed as it is being rendered a few frames at a time and in the Render Queue panel, you can see the progress of how much of the rendering is complete and the duration of the video being updated.

In the composition panel, you can see that the video is being previewed as it is being rendered a few frames at a time and in the Render Queue panel, you can see the progress of how much of the rendering is complete and the duration of the video being updated.

of the video being rendered is also updated at the center of this panel in live time. That brings us to the end of this tutorial. Upon completion of this tutorial, you can see that there are more interactive tutorials to learn from and all of these look fun. d