

If you have a greenscreen, you can also click the checkbox on the bottom left corner, labelled with the same name, to enable green screen detection on Zoom.

To load your own backgrounds, click on the  button, and select the background that you would like to apply.

Google Meet

Before joining a meeting:

- Click on the icon on the bottom right corner of the camera window, represented by 3 stars and labelled as apply visual effects.
- When in the menu, select the visual effect that you like.
- Close the menu and join the meeting when ready.

The pre-meeting page on Google Meet with the apply visual effects option

While in a meeting:

- Click on the icon represented by three vertically arranged dots, located on the left-hand side of the hang up button.
- From the menu, select the apply visual effects option.
- Apply the effect you want to and close the window.

If you want to add and apply your own custom background, click on the  button in the visual effects menu.

Password and patterns leak

Whenever you are sharing your screen on any platform and on any device, make sure that you are sharing only the window that you intend to. On every major video conferencing and meeting platform, there is an option to share a particular application, which is the way to go more