

one of the most loved Linux desktop environments. MATE gives its users a classic-feeling and excellent-looking interface, which improves the end-user experience. Out of all, MATE is one of those Linux desktop environments which revamps your desktop's look with great themes and eye-catching colour combinations.

Below, we have curated the reasons why you should use MATE, which will give you an idea of what MATE brings to the table. let's have a look-

1. Customising the appearance

Without a doubt, MATE is one of the most loved desktop environments gaining popularity like no other. The first time you boot up, it feels classic and gives a traditional approach. However, the users can customise the appearance of MATE. There are a plethora of options available to select from.

2. Default software

While many KDE Plasma users believe that it features the best file manager, Dolphin, Caja, the file manager in MATE, successfully made its mark in the world of file managers. Although it's not the best of all, it's pretty decent on its own to meet your expectations and get the job done right.

MATE running on Debian.