

Must have resource for Ph. D. candidates

PubMed

This is a search engine linked to the National Institutes of Health’s MEDLINE database, which contains abstracts and references to papers in the biological sciences and biomedicine. With the other 30 million records in total, this database may be really complete, simply structured, and reason-

One of the biggest medical databases