

a ton of stuff to cover and we encourage you to try it out at your leisure. For now, just press the save button on the top and go to your home screen.

On your home screen, you'll find your shiny new Kustom widget waiting for you.

Okay. We know what you're thinking. We hyped the app up so much and the current widget doesn't quite cut it. Yes, we know. This was just the basic pre-installed pack. The real fun begins now.

Before we begin diving into packages, we'd like to instruct you about widgets and their sizes. You see, you can't just take any widget and slap it into any size. Earlier, we picked a 4 x 1 widget. This means that it is four rows wide and one row tall. Depending on the widget that you're trying to place on your home screen, you may need to insert a different sized blank widget. Hence, if you want a widget on your home screen, we suggest placing a random sized blank widget first, then going into the actual home screen of the app and picking out the widget you want. After you see the widget, you'll get a pretty good idea of whether it's a wide widget or a tall widget and which blank widget size to choose for it.
