

Launchers

Your alternative home screen

If you have been an Android customisation enthusiast, you will definitely have heard about the variety of “Launchers” that are available in the market. However, if you’re a newbie here, let us take you through the world of Android Launchers!

Launchers are basically “replacements” for your home screen. You see, if you have anything other than a stock Android phone like Pixel or Motorola, you definitely have your phone manufacturer’s skin on top of your Android. That means that the version of Android that you are using right now isn’t the way that Google meant it to be. It is the way that your phone manufacturer meant it to be. Now that may be a good thing or a bad thing. And the topic of liking or disliking a certain skin of Android such as MIUI or Color OS is a pretty subjective thing as well. If you belong to that group of people who absolutely hate their manufacturer’s skin, we have you covered. We cannot change the whole skin (as of now) but we can change a part of that skin that you interact with the most - your home screen.
