

rate apps for doing these simple tasks when these tasks can be integrated into one screen.

On top of that, it is highly customisable too. It may not seem apparent enough from the home screen itself, but yes, you can customise literally each and every aspect of it. You see, the way things are organised in this Launcher is a bit different. Everything is a widget here. Yes, literally everything you see is a movable, deletable and customisable widget. From the clock at the top to the exchange rates at the bottom. Now, since everything is a widget, you can change anything's position to anywhere you want. To do this, firstly, swipe right on a widget that you want to move. A small context menu should appear on the right side of the widget.

Once this menu appears, you can drag the widget to anywhere you like.
