

If you don't want the widget altogether, you can just press the "Delete" icon and the widget will disappear. We've moved the Bitcoin price chart to the top of our home screen.

Okay, widgets and all are cool but how do you actually access your app drawer? Well, you need to press your “back” button for that. If you use navigation gestures instead, just perform the “back” gesture like you usually do and you’ll see the app drawer pop out from the left side.

Speaking of gestures, did you know that the small search button on the bottom right part of your screen is a fully customisable gesture magnet? Don't believe us? Well, try swiping up on the icon. You'll see this menu.

And swiping left on the icon will give you this menu:-

Tapping on the icon will launch a global search i.e. the search string will be queried against the existing apps on your phone and the web.

This is all the customisation that you get out of the box - premade. It's time to unleash the full potential of this app. Swipe up on the search icon and
