

A great addition to Nova is its integration with Sesame. This provides additional functionality to long-pressing an app, giving app-specific suggestions such as chatting with someone specific on WhatsApp or playing from a playlist on YouTube.

Finally, a great feature that Nova provides for users who may be messing with their phone a lot or changing it a lot is to export all the settings and arrangements to the cloud and then re-importing it later on.

That covers the highlights of the Nova launcher. It has an infinite number of cogs and wheels to tweak and is a must-try for casual and power users alike.

Minimalist Launchers

Minimalism is all about keeping just what gives worth and significance to your life. It's all about clearing out the clutter and focusing your time and attention on what's left. We have a certain quantity of energy, time, and space in our lives. With new tech proving to be time sink-holes and outlets of distractions, more and more people are adopting the philosophy of minimalism, to the point where many product decisions are taken with this philosophy in mind. Here are some custom launchers that will help you focus more on your life and less on your phone:

Ratio Launcher

Ratio is developed by Blloc, a company that has been solely focused on minimalism and safety of privacy for quite a few years and they have developed a few phones with those features in mind in the past. But they recently made their launcher available to the public to be installed on any phone they like. Ratio heavily cuts out all the bloat and unnecessary feature available in most phones and launchers and
