

Before Launcher

Before Launcher is another well-known launcher in the minimalist launcher space. It provides a simple home screen where users can pin up to eight apps. It provides some degree of customisation and some other features are locked in the pro version of the app.

The app drawer opens to the right of the home screen, and users can customise how the app drawer lists the apps by grouping them into folders or hiding certain apps. However, most customisations here are also locked behind a paywall.

Before Launcher has a dedicated page for notifications and filters them for you and shows only the important notifications depending on user preferences. Users can either turn the filter on or off depending on their mood or even turn off all the notifications by turning on DND mode.

Niagara Launcher

Niagara Launcher describes itself as ‘The minimalist Niagara Launcher makes everything accessible with one hand and lets you focus on what matters.’ It provides a very clean and minimalist home screen where you can pin up to eight apps of your choice. Swiping right on each of these pinned apps will bring up the quick menus of each of these apps.

It has a very accessible and functional scroll bar with fluid animations and easy access to all the apps alphabetically, making it very easy to use the launcher with one hand.

In terms of user customisation, Niagara allows users to change their wallpapers and even comes with its own wallpaper collection. It also allows for the icons shape and icon packs to be customised as per users’ liking.

Niagara also includes some built-in widgets for Weather and Calendar. However, amongst all
