

to squeeze the last drop of customisability and productivity out of your phone, this chapter will help you to customise almost every aspect of your notification shade and even give it a fresh new look!

But, before we pull out the big guns and show you how to completely change your notification shade, we'll first show you some apps which help you maximise your productivity with the notification shade.

Notin - Notes In Notification

Notin does exactly what it says in the title - give notes in the notification shade but a bit differently. You see, throughout your day, there's a lot of stuff that you have to remember or stuff that you just don't want to save - information that'll be used once and then forgotten completely. That's where Notin comes in.

Notin is a freemium app that gives you a persistent notification in your notification shade with a pre-configured text written by you. This basically negates the principle of "Out of sight, Out of mind" and puts the information right in front of your face. And as it turns out, the app is pretty simple and straightforward to use too! Firstly, install the app from the Google Play Store. Then, open it and you'll see something like this:
