This app lacks a lot from the customisation standpoint. You see, even though you don't see ads in the free version, there is a paid version of this app too. In order to customise the colours and themes for this app, you will need to pay for the premium version. The free version lacks literally everything customisation wise. The only thing you can change is the tabs on the top of the homescreen and the font-size.

All in all, this is a really good looking and functioning ad-free alternative to the first app that we mentioned in the list. So, if you want a no-nonsense, ad free minimal experience while calling, you should check out this app.

SMS

Whether you do or don't use SMS, we can all agree on one point – after Whatsapp came and dominated the instant messaging market, the use of SMS dropped drastically. Ofcourse, that was bound to happen. Before WhatsApp, there were separate charges for SMS and even now, most mobile plans limit the user to 100 SMS per day. That's a really small limit, especially if you're someone who talks to people on text a lot. But still, in one way or another, SMS is still a part of our daily lives. Now, it's main purpose is for OTPs and bank statements. Well, we're not denying that SMS is completely outdated but just like every other thing in our lives, it does need organisation.

We can bet that right now, your SMS app is a cluttered mess containing OTPs, promotional messages, bank statements and conversations with people. What if we said that we can help you declutter this mess and make it organised again? We've curated some of the best SMS organisation apps and SMS apps for you to replace your default SMS app.
