

(IoT) concentrates on services, whereas the robotics community focuses on production activity, interaction, and autonomous behaviour (robotics).

The integration of two domains results in improved robotics task execution. Robots now have more data to analyse and make decisions with the help of artificial intelligence. Edge computing, in this way, opens the door to even closer collaboration between humans and machines. 