

12 users and contains 5GB of storage. However, the Plus account adds more capabilities if you need them. Overall, Bitrix24 provides a robust set of capabilities that will be especially useful for small enterprises and start-ups, allowing them to expand and thrive through increased efficiency on a single platform.

Trello

Trello is a popular and well-designed solution for organising, planning, and sharing everything from simple to-do lists to big project management tasks.

In Trello, single tasks can be represented using cards, which can have priorities and deadlines. There can also be more comprehensive checklists with connected files and images, as well as references to other websites. There's also a Power-Ups library of custom cards that let you incorporate a variety of third-party services into your workflow. Trello provides a lot of collaborative capabilities to help you organise your tasks, as well as a lot of clever features to make it easy to use.

Say hello to a better workflow!

Buffer

Buffer is one of the most popular social media management tools. If you're in charge of your company's social media accounts, you won't find a better app than Buffer.
