

Clear the buffer with Buffer

Buffer makes posting, scheduling, and tracking performance simple and efficient. It also comes with a robust analytics tool that displays the most important KPIs. To better understand your followers and what they like, you may measure clicks, comments, shares, and likes.

You may get started with Buffer's free plan, which is designed for people who are new to social networking. You will, however, need to acquire a premium subscription plan if you want more extensive engagement and analytic capabilities.

Monitask

Monitask is a simple and cost-effective software application for tracking project productivity and time. The time-tracking tool is ideal for keeping track of remote teams' progress and actively growing teams that want to make better use of their time. Large firms with well-established operations can also benefit from optimising and increasing staff efficiency.

Monitask tracks firm employees' activities throughout the day, including overtime and visits to "unproductive" websites. The software is sensitive to sensitive user information, thus screenshots of personal information, such as typed passwords, are not shown. It is not a spyware programme. Instead, it focuses on streamlining work processes, detecting inefficient staff, and finding projects/tasks that have become stagnant.
