

They're annoying, right?

apps and/or Show most used apps from the drop-down menu. When you return to the Start menu and choose the All apps button, one or both categories will be at the top of the list.

How to change the Start menu's background color

To change the Start menu's backdrop colour, you must first change the Windows 11 colour palette as a whole. Go to Personalization > Colors in the Settings app (Windows key + I). If you don't use dark mode for Windows, you won't be able to change the background of the Windows 11 Start menu. Choose your mode to Dark, and it will apply to Windows and your apps. You may keep your apps Light by setting Choose your mode to Custom. Now select your Accent colour and enable the Show Accent Color on Start and Taskbar option.

Replace the Windows 11 Start menu

The Windows 11 Start menu will never look like prior Start menus, no matter how many settings you tweak. If you can't get used to it, try a Start menu option. Start Menu X is our favourite because it has a free version and many customization options.