

from any internet-connected device. This program can spider websites to download specific types of files, and you can select which parts of a ZIP file you want to download. It's a fantastic tool, and choosing between it and Ninja Internet Download Manager for the top slot was difficult.

Download jpegs faster

4. JDownloader

JDownloader is a free, open source download manager for Windows, Linux, and Mac that has a large developer community.

With support for over 300 decryption plugins, automatic RAR extraction, password list searching, and OCR to complete some of the captcha 'I'm not a robot' checks you'll find on download sites, it's really one for power users. To use it, you'll need the Java Runtime Environment. NOTE: You'll have to be careful while downloading it because the installer contains adware, which will be installed alongside the download manager unless you explicitly uncheck it. d