OBS Studio

Open Broadcast Software Studio – more popularly known among video content creators across the internet as OBS Studio – is one of the most feature-rich open-source software available. The software is widely used by streamers, as it can not only record your desktop but can also be used for live streaming. It is also extremely versatile as it can be used with Windows, MacOS, and even Linux (although it should be said that the Linux install is a slightly longer process; but we'll save that for a different Fast Track). OBS Studio is feature-rich to the point where it comes very close to simulating a live news studio as seen by news EPs in broadcast. That said, if used well, it has the potential to take your videos to the next level.
