

required. In simple terms, it is an independent platform. Apart from this, OpenCMS helps reduce IT costs for users by cutting the costs of the licensing as well as total cost of ownership. The CMS is based on standard Java. With the current shift of content management systems to open-source operating systems like Linux, moving to open-source CMSes is a smart move. 