How to Launch a WordPress Site?

• Pick your niche

Choosing the type of website you want to establish is the first and most crucial step before you publish a WordPress site. You can be launching a blog, an online store, a company profile, etc. Select a subject for your website's primary focus if you're building one for personal use. After choosing a that, you should consider what your website's main objective is. Do you intend to make money from your website, or is it only for enjoyment? Whatever objectives you choose, be careful to stick with them.

• Choose a domain name

Selecting a domain name is a further critical step that requires careful con-
