

underneath your plugin's header section. Before you save your changes, be sure to update the Twitter and Facebook profile URLs with your own.

Now, go to your computer's desktop and make a zip file for the plugin folder. Mac users can compress the wpb-plugin-tutorial folder by right-clicking on it and selecting 'Compress wpb-plugin-tutorial'. Your plugin will be ready now!!

```

1  function wpb_follow_us($content) {
2
3  // Only do this when a single post is displayed
4  if ( is_single() ) {
5
6  // Message you want to display after the post
7  // Add URLs to your own Twitter and Facebook profiles
8
9  $content .= 'If you liked this article, then please follow us on <a href="http://twitter.com/wpbeginner"
    title="WPBeginner on Twitter" target="_blank" rel="nofollow">Twitter and Facebook.'; 10
11 }
12 // Return the content
13 return $content;
14
15 }
16 // Hook our function to WordPress the_content filter
17 add_filter('the_content', 'wpb_follow_us');
```

Conclusion

By now, you know almost everything related to the plugins section in WordPress. Install the appropriate plug-ins and then properly maintain them in your system. Updating WordPress plugins is a critical component of WordPress site administration and security. But that doesn't imply it has to be difficult. You configure an automated updating schedule too to make your life easier. d