

MOBILE MADNESS

You have to try these games out on your smartphone!

By Anusha 'Trillian' Sinha

AbyssRium

AbyssRium is hands down the best clicker out there.

Firstly, the graphics are amazing. This cannot be stressed enough. The fish, corals and the coralite come to life in glorious, polygonal design in pastel shades. The standard screen doesn't allow you to do much except upgrading the coral covering the lonely rock who is sort of the protagonist of this game. However, there is a camera mode which allows you to get up close and personal with all the piscine inhabitants of your spot in the sea. There is even a VR mode which can be used if you have a Cardboard for a truly immersive experience. This mode is more satisfying than many other smartphone games or visualisations built exclusively for VR. The soundtrack is gentle and serene and is key to creating what is, in essence, a very happy game. There is no violence and no fish eating other fish. If you have always hated clickers, give a chance to AbyssRium and you just might become a convert. If you like clickers, definitely try this out.

Through the Fog

If there was a way to turn a poem into a game, 'Through the Fog' is probably what you would get at the end of it. Straight from the names of the levels to the graceful movement of the ever extending block and the music, everything in this game combines to give you what is truly an ode to classic runners.

Through the Fog is a remake of the beloved Snake of yore but done so elegantly that you will hardly recognize it for what it is. Forget the row of black dots which crawled across your Nokia's screen and take a look at the beautifully designed landscapes in this game.

There are several levels and each level has been designed keeping in mind a season or set of emotions as the basis for inspiration. 'Through the Fog' is in essence a one-touch controlled runner in which a pillar extending to eternity zig-zags across breathtaking levels. We can go on and on about this game, it's that good. Try 'Through the Fog' for a surprisingly transcendent mobile gaming experience.

Chameleon Run

From Noodlecake Studios Inc, the creators of Mmm Fingers and Stickman Golf, comes Chameleon Run, as stellar a game as any of its predecessors. The game is about guiding the protagonist, a cap wearing, light-footed, sprightly individual who jumps up platforms and bounces from walls like it's no big deal. There are just two controls in this game. You touch the left side of the screen to make the character switch colours between yellow and pink, so they are the same colour as the platform they have to run across. If you make the switch a second too late, your runner will disintegrate into shards.

The graphics are really slick as are the physics which means that you retain precise control even when the character is zooming by at high speeds. The game is quite reminiscent of Rayman Fiesta Run in terms of the way the character moves but substitutes Rayman's visually dense levels with something almost Spartan.