✉ It's been an awesome experience getting connected with Digit. You've been mind databases with technology opinions and latest stuff, accompanied with handy tips, tricks and unlimited possibilities!

Being a regular reader of your magazines since May 2012, the experience has been always fruitful and informative and I hope it rises in the near future to a whole new level.

My August DVD seems to be corrupted. May I request a replacement for that and get it in along with my September issue (being a subscriber)?

One more thing, Can we order the digit T-shirt you give away as a prize to the monthly letters?

—Shubham Goyal

📧 Thank you for your continued support Shubham! You are right about the DVD, we messed up. The interface .exe file got corrupted in the replication process. The good news is that the data on it can still be accessed via Windows Explorer. We apologise for the inconvenience and have improved our internal processes so that this doesn't happen again.

✉ Hi I am Sagnik and I am 12. I have been reading Digit since last November. I have not subscribed to it, but my school librarian gives it to me every weekend even when it involves bending the rules a little. I am a geek and I have succeeded in turning some of my friends into geeks too. I have some suggestions and for you people:

1. Can you do a article on mid range laptops?
2. Provide posters of games like PES 17 or FIFA 17
3. Can you give some reviews of laptops on your YouTube channel?

The cover of this month was excellent. The idea of implementing SKOAR! In the main mag was an excellent one!

Feedback for the August 2016 issue of Digit laptop-related stories throughout the year, and yes, we will be doing a mid-ranged laptop comparison very soon. Laptop reviews are present on our YouTube channel and our Facebook page, too. Let us know what you think of them. Your poster request has been noted, and we would have loved to accommodate all the poster related requests that flood our inbox. If more readers like you request the FIFA or PES poster, we will obviously include it. Stay tuned.

✉ I have been buying your magazines for the past few years. Unfortunately, I was not able to subscribe as I had no permanent address. I first saw Digit when I was 9. Now I am 13. Earlier there were always two magazines to be eager for. Chip and Digit. But, I soon realised that Digit is the most awesome planet in the universe. I am also a fan of Assassin's Creed but I couldn't play after black flag due to vram. Anyway you are awesome in your work!

📧 Why thank you kind sir!

✉ Dear Team Digit!

I've been your avid reader since like three months. How did I get addicted to it?

Saw the 15th anniversary edition at some bookstore and DAMN! That catchy cover sure got my attention! Plus, the next month's magazine with E3 trailers was best and I kinda also loved F8 conference keynotes (yet to watch the 2nd part). After that every time I returned from school I was like "Hey mom did it arrive?" but nah it didn't, and every time I see a postman am like "Hey this guy's got my Digit" but sadly the answer was always "Still no luck yet". And finally it arrived on 8th. It was like a dream come true! I loved your posters. Gotta collect 'em all! <3 Keep makin' us readers proud! From your biggest fan...

📧 Wow! Thanks for your letter Punarnava. We'll keep up the good stuff. Pinky swear.
