If there is one driving simulator franchise that can give PlayStation's Gran Turismo a run for its money, it's Microsoft's Forza franchise.

For those unaware, we get a Forza game every year. Every alternate year, it's Forza Motorsport and every other year it's Forza Horizon. This year we got the Forza Horizon 3 and I think it is the best looking game on the Xbox One.

Graphics

Forza Horizon 3 is yet another Microsoft Play Anywhere game. Which means that when you buy the game on the Xbox One, you get the PC copy as well. The game looks amazing on both the platform. On the PC the game can run at 60FPS but that needs a lot of horsepower. On the Xbox One, the game runs at 1080p 60FPS. We played the game on the original Xbox One and the Xbox

One S and it ran flawlessly on both. We mostly played the game on the Xbox One S and the graphics of the game are beautiful. At 1080p 30FPS there is no frame drop or anything wrong with the game at a technical level. Simply put, it's the best looking game on the Xbox One. From the lush green environments of the forest, to the small desert patches, city street and beaches, the visual fidelity of this game is very impressive. Dynamic weather is also at play here, so be it a hot summer afternoon, or a rainy day or even night races, the game looks stunning. The effect of the rain on the windscreen in the cockpit view are very realistic.

Overall, there is no place to complain about the graphics of the game. It's downright beautiful! Period!

Sound

Another area where the game excels is with the sound. The supporting cast, which essentially tells you where to go and what to do, in a game like this is usually sounds very cheeky. But here, the supporting cast isn't bad. In fact, since the story is about you and building your festival, these supporting characters make you feel like the center of attraction.
