

Betterspot

Betterspot is a router with built-in VPN for secure surfing. With the need for secure browsing and surfing, VPNs and VPN routers are becoming increasingly popular. There are several VPN services available but it's hard to find a VPN app or service that works with all your devices and platforms. Betterspot can easily connect to these devices, be they tablets, smartphones or laptops. Not only that, it's also compatible with several operating systems, like Windows, Ubuntu, OS X, Android, iOS, BlackBerry etc. You're no longer bound by geo-restricted channels or fears of being monitored or tracked, and you get unrestricted access to all streaming services with Betterspot. It comes with an app of its own as well through which you easily control using your smartphone and access several other settings. If you want to back Betterspot and maybe make your browsing sessions more secure and free, you can still do so on their Kickstarter page.

Leafboard

The Leafboard is a light and stylish electric skateboard. Weighing at only 4.4 kg, it could arguably be the lightest electric skateboard in the market today. The Leafboard can reach speeds of up to 30.5 km/h and has a single-charge range of 18.5 km. Its light weight makes it easy to carry around and convenient for short trips. There's also a backpack designed specifically to carry the Leafboard around with all your other daily accessories. The Leafboard doesn't use the traditional skateboard deck size and trucks, it instead uses a 9.5-inch wide deck and 6-inch trucks. This design was incorporated with the help of experienced skaters to ensure it was easy to kick and stop and keep long range rides comfy. The longboard dimensions – deck width and trucks – make the Leafboard more stable as well. It's water resistant, charges pretty fast, and even has a portable charger on it to charge your other devices. Leafboard is expected to ship out in January next year, you can still back them on Kickstarter, and Tony Hawk your way around in your neighbourhood on it.
