Louis Vuitton iPhone Case

The latest iPhone is out and people are still lining up to get their hands on one. One of the perks that comes with owning an iPhone is well, bragging rights. What's the point of having one if you can't flaunt it? Right. Well one of the accessories that can help you do this even better is a phone case, and not just any phone case, a Louis Vuitton phone case. Artist Nicolas Ghesquiere recently created some very fancy looking phone covers for the iPhone and showcased them as a part of the LV Spring 2017 collection. The inspiration for the cases comes from the brand's petite Malle trunk bag which was a sensation back in 2014, complete with reinforced corners, studs and monogram prints. Other than the trademark monogrammed version, there will also be a golden metallic, a blue and red crocodile print, and the signature Damier print. Oh! and these cases also gives users identical holders for their AirPods, how thoughtful. As if holding a tiny Louis Vuitton trunk in your hand wasn't luxurious enough. The case comes with easy access to all ports and buttons. It also comes with a handy strap that increases the protection for your prized iPhone. And by now it is evident that you also have multiple credit and debit cards, so the case also has slots to hold those. Fashion publications, along with tech publications, around the globe are all over it and according to reports.

We don't know how these iPhone cases will be priced but we can definitely assume it won't be cheap. A similar looking case on luxe6case.com is marked at $42.99 (₹2865). But that price cannot be confirmed because, well, we aren't going to buy it. That shouldn't stop you and if you feel like your iPhone needs some more luxury of its own, look out for these designer Louis Vuitton cases at a store near you...or maybe somewhere a bit farther.

Galactica Super Nova

The Galactica Super Nova is a cruising superyacht with twin MTU main engines which can deliver over 10,000 horsepower for when you want to cruise fast. But things get really fast when the third engine and the Rolls-Royce booster jet kicks in, with a top speed of a whopping 30 knots (55 km h approx). These speeds are possible thanks to the all-aluminum hull, the slender 11.9 metre beam, and the bulbous bow, which aid the Super Nova in cutting through the waves. Water-flow along the sides of the yacht is managed by the after sections of the hull. The Galactica Super Nova features warm interiors, making use of light fabrics and wood. As for exteriors, this 70-metre cruise yacht features a sliding glass surrounding the sundeck, so that guests can stay on deck at higher speeds. There's also a 6-metre pool near the main deck with a waterfall. Yes, a waterfall. The Galactica Super Nova can entertain up to 12 guests; the master suite is on the main deck and there are four doubles in the lower one and an additional double on the bridge deck.
