Casio MR-G Gold Hammer Tone

When you think G-Shock you think sporty watches. Casio's G-Shock watches are easily recognisable for not only their appearance but their ruggedness and sturdiness as well. But that doesn't mean that a G-Shock can't go the luxury way. The all-new G-Shock MR-G Hammer Tone model was handcrafted in Japan and was made using the tradition Tsu-i-ki method in which the each bezel and band is hammered individually to create a unique pattern.

This watch marks Casio's second collaboration with the master metal craftsman Bihou Asano. The Tsu-i-ki method was used to individually hammer each of the 300 watches that were produced. Special tools were used to accommodate for the small size of the bracelet and the links. The MR-G Hammer Tone features a titanium case and bracelet band, a non-reflective sapphire crystal, GPS satellite sync for accuracy and comes with Multiband 6 and Tough Solar capabilities. As expected of a G-Shock it's quite rugged, with shock resistance and water resistance up to 200M. Each of the watches will be priced at $6200 at launch.

Also, the watch boasts dozens of useful features - ranging from GPS time sync to stopwatch. The watch is powered by an 18-month battery charged by solar cells. The case is 49.8mm in diameter and 16.9mm thick, while the functions include world time function, chronograph, countdown timer, alarm, perpetual calendar, battery indicator and backlight.

The watch will be available starting January 2017 and, as we mentioned earlier, will be limited edition. The craftsmanship combined with the exclusivity justifies the MR in the name, which stands for Majesty+Reality.

Trump Engraved iPhone 7

Before you ask, this in no way has anything to do with politics or who we support. Coincidentally enough, this Gold Trump emblazoned iPhone 7 is now in existence thanks to Russian Company Caviar, who are known for their extravagant designs. This custom iPhone has been created by the brand to honor Trump's iconic win. The iPhone features a gold plated portrait of Trump on the back and also features, in gold of course, his iconic campaign slogan, "Make America Great Again." The manufacturers aim to better the relations between the two countries with this as well.

They also desire to hand over one of these to Donald Trump himself. These exclusive 'Trump'ified iPhones can be purchased for $3100 and are probably a must buy for the die-hard Trump supporters out there. So pretty soon, Donald Trump might be tweeting about Donald Trump from a Donald Trump iPhone - are you feeling Trumped yet?
