Unwind

How we unwind

Moar Food!

We found a new place (yes, AGAIN) to get food from and it comes to us in the form of the Gorb app. We've been ordering from them for well over a week now and we probably won't be stopping anytime soon.

Blue Mountain State

This ridiculous teenage comedy series that looks like an extended version of American Pie, has totally enthralled Mithun. For the rest of us it's a guilty pleasure. Don't tell anyone.

diGit DIARY

This was a month of many firsts. It was the first time Arnab "PC Police" Mukherjee used the F bomb in a sentence *gasp*. It was also the first time he came to office on a Sunday! *double gasp!* Arnab is like the most married, un-married guy we know. We're glad he could get away from the old ball and chain, to spend time with his true love – technology. This was also the first time Sid got to be on a radio show. Though he was more excited about the fact that people still listen to good old conventional radio. An unnamed millennial in the team *cough* Manish *cough* wanted to listen in, and asked where he could "stream" it from. LAWL. Speaking of the Mama's Boy, this was the first time (in a long while) that Manish didn't write the diary. He has been pretty glum lately, because the powers that be, decided to not let him go home to Hyderabad for a long weekend. The writer filling in for him, asks that you guys find him on Facebook, and send him all the cute kitten pictures you can find. He'll be very appreciative. (his name is spelt M-A-N-I-S-H R-A... ah we're sure you'll find him)

Puzzle2

Trying to escape the grind the Monday-Friday routine, long time Digit readers, Tanay and Abhilash decided to put their extra time in developing small mobile games. Working as engineers in Bengaluru, they named themselves Mast Studios and developed Puzzle2. You'd imagine Puzzle2 came after Puzzle1 or just Puzzle, but in fact, they never managed to finish Puzzle. Apparently, both of them are overwhelmed with ideas and are easily distracted with new projects. Now, the team is focusing on building Puzzle3 while trying to finish the first one, confusing them whether to call it Puzzle1 or Puzzle3 on release.
