

Corrigendum 1

The Blueair Classic 280i hands-on from last month's Greed Examined section wrongly mentioned another product's model name as the headline. We apologise to our readers for this oversight. In order to clear the confusion we have reprinted the write up with the corrected headline.

 Hey Team Digit!

First things first, my English is not so good. I hope you will be able to understand whatever I have written.

Secondly, this is gonna be a long mail. Hope you will have the time to read it!

Chapter 1 - My struggle for your mag.

It was March 2013 when I read your mag for the first time in the school library and I was like, "Man! This is awesome!". And I kept reading and reading. Whenever I got some free time I read your mag. But I wasn't able to afford it (economical issue, your mag isn't expensive) so I collected money and ran to the railway station with pocket full of coins and 5/10 rupees notes to buy your mag. Later, I requested dad to opt for a 3-month subscription and I said I don't want anything on my birthday. Dad subscribed to it and I was really very happy! After that I didn't read your mag for a few months coz I wasn't able to buy and then my dad was also posted in a hard area in Assam where there nothing is available (not even a newspaper!). But this time I went for a holiday and while returning bought the April and May issue both (Damn! All my collected money is gone!)

Chapter 2 - Feedback for dmystify.

The things which always irritates me is - tapes! Both my April and May dmystify got injured against those tapes! Better you keep the dmystify inside the mag. It's not a compulsion to show its cover.

Chapter 3 - Feedback for SKOAR.

Well, you guys really do an awesome review of everything. You should also write about the system requirements of the game you are writing about. It give a kind of relief to some guys like me!

Chapter 4 - Something "OffBeat".

I know this is a tech magazine and it's really awesome! You guys cover each and everything related to tech! But what I feel is that you guys should add an "OffBeat" section which should have something interesting UN-related to tech such as "Food you should try this month!" Or "Places to visit this month!"

Chapter 5 - What about history?

Well, you guys should also write about a specific brand every month - how it was started, its struggle in the Indian market and how it got successful. It will be quite interesting!

Chapter 6 - Last words.

Team Digit, I'm a die hard fan of your mag and I'll keep collecting money to buy your mag and you guys keep collecting the awesome stuff! Never stop your work and the fans will never stop appreciating! Love you guys!

Your #DieHardFan,

-Harshit Singh

 Dear Harshit:

Thanks so much for your message. I am the publisher of Digit. At the outset let me tell you that your communication skills are great. You have no reason to be apologetic about it. Communication is a two way process - and you have jump started it by initiating the conversation. What's the point of having great language skills but never really putting them to use to communicate effectively?! As regards your specific feedback about the content, I am sure our editors will give it due consideration. Digit is thankful and proud of die-hard fans like yourself. Do keep reading Digit and writing to us. Regards

-Vikas

Hey guys, I was just reading the cover story of May 2017; "Customize your phone" part. I couldn't help but that notice that you recommended some applications for easy root. It's quite bothering me that one of the largest tech magazine will recommend using a Chinese botnet root application which installs non removable sponsored apps which are converted into system apps. Also I'd like you inform you that these are not secure and very shady. You mentioned XDA but forgot to tell how actively XDA and all other communities are strictly against these Chinese botnet installers. They could cause some real damage to some of the readers of your magazine.

I just felt the need to report that as that could be harmful for some users. I bet this was a honest mistake in your part and could have slipped in by accident. All in all, apart from that, rest of the content is top notch; easy to navigate, great format, so cheers on that.

Hi Shivanand,

There is a lot of concern over these '1-step Rooting' tools, and we've read those same XDA articles you have. In hindsight, we probably should have put a much stronger disclaimer explaining exactly what could go wrong when rooting. Now let's look at the individual tools mentioned.
