

APP OF THE MONTH

Zophop

Public transport can be a hassle to even the most seasoned travellers among us. Figuring out the correct bus routes, where to change trains and even the correct fare can be a hassle and cause unnecessary delays when you can't deal with them. While m-indicator has been a reliable solution for people in Mumbai, now Zophop is providing the same facilities to almost every major city in the country. The app includes timings and route details for almost every major public transportation system in your city. For instance, in Mumbai you get bus, train, metro, monorail and even ferry details. You can even bookmark your favorite routes and they'll constantly show up on the main screen. And at any given point of time, you can see the details of cabs near you as well as public transport stops. But one of the best features of the app, something that is gradually catching on, is live bus timings. The information is obtained via crowdsourcing - as in, you need to check in on a bus from a certain bus stop to indicate its location. Think about it like a Waze but for buses. If you're wondering that this will never catch up, guess what? It already is. Along with all these features, the app also has a Nearby section where you can look up nearby bus, train stops on the map itself, as well as the live locations of buses. And did we tell you that you can also purchase passes on the app? Overall, Zophop could very easily be the one stop solution to fulfil your public transport information needs in India.

MUST INSTALL

GoPro Quik

As mobile internet connections get better, video is gaining a more important role in social media. GoPro Quik is a easy-to-use video editing app that is social media targeted. After selecting the clips you want to combine, move on to one of the many standard overall filters. You can also edit individual aspects like music, captions and then the app even suggests the best length for Instagram or based on the music. The app even detects the beats on music you add separately to your video. This one app is all you need to rule the social media video scene.

MUST INSTALL

Memrise

Google I/O 2017 happened in May, and with the 2017 Google Play Awards. Memrise got the Best App award and it definitely deserves the win! If you thought Duolingo had gamified the task of learning a language as much as possible, you're in for a pleasant surprise. Starting off as a space cadet, you choose your language of choice. Then you move onto a host of text, audio and image based tasks, interspersed by bot chats (pro feature) in the language itself that help you learn it even better. It covers most popular languages and even the Pro version is worth it.

ALSO TRY

MoneyTap

This one is an app-based credit line that assures credit application processing in a matter of minutes - be it a small loan to tide over the end of the month or a personal loan of upto ₹5 lakh.

myHQ

If you're an aspiring entrepreneur in the NCR region, myHQ can take care of your infrastructure needs by providing you on-demand co-working spaces. With plans to expand to other cities soon, myHQ's biggest USP is being able to pay per visit, which is something that other co-working spaces are yet to offer.

Glitch

While the world goes crazy over artsy photo editing filters, us geeks can resort to the Glitch app for photo editing a la old school glitches. With effects like VHS scanlines, 3D, Window Lag, Pixel, Wave and more, you can produce some really cool looking selfies and pictures out of this one.
