

Sex changing dragon

Embryonic bearded dragon lizards turn into females when the heat turns up. Read more here: <http://digit.in/TempSex>

Power of translation, with voice

'Reverso' is going to get a major update which will enable it to translate any meaningful phrase just by hearing it. <http://digit.in/ReversoV>

Settling the score

<http://digit.in/YurekaBlk>

Forum members upset about our reviews, as they always are. They keep us on our toes. We will be posting a reply to that thread to explain things to them. Watch that page.

smaceterik.cse
New Member

Hey All,
This post revolves around the score given by Team Digit (70/100) for the newly launched YU Yureka Black.

Just for the sake of reference, I have been using YU Yureka A05S10 for past couple of years which got a well exaggerated rating of 76. Only owners of this phone could realize later about the pain in their (you know where)-Buggy software, hell like heating issue, absolute no support for update from cyanogen OS, inconsistent RAM usage, unreliable hardware etc etc.

Now, reading this new review is make me even more confused!!!

So many demerits team digit has explained another handfull will come as someone will use the device for certain amount of time and Yet Digit thinks to rate 70/100 when compared to 69/100 for samsung C7 pro!!!

Why so much of kindness towards YU even when none of the handsets by the company could perform that well to be appreciated.

I have been a digit reader for almost a decade and sadly thinking to switch to someplace better for these kind of information. Need to know how other tech lovers feels to what I feel

YurekaBlk
Active Member

Digit reviews have been mediocre, for as far as I remember. They do not give importance to build quality at all. I saw them recommend expensive zebtronics PSUs with no certification, a few years back.. only after the outrage and gaga in the forums about how bad elcheapo psus are, they stopped recommending.

The killer rigs configuration is also another disappointment, considering the fact that the recommendations on the forums are much much better. Hats of to saiyano_goku and hell even bssunilreddy for consistently replying to rig building posts

YurekaBlk
Active Member

Digit reviews have been mediocre, for as far as I remember. They do not give importance to build quality at all. I saw them recommend expensive zebtronics PSUs with no certification, a few years back.. only after the outrage and gaga in the forums about how bad elcheapo psus are, they stopped recommending.

The killer rigs configuration is also another disappointment, considering the fact that the recommendations on the forums are much much better. Hats of to saiyano_goku and hell even bssunilreddy for consistently replying to rig building posts

Paying homage to the classics

<http://digit.in/abdnware>

A really interesting discussion about abandonware and retro gaming that we know you would love to contribute to. So what are you waiting for? Register on the forum already...

Desmond Davis
Destroy Erase Improve

This thread is dedicated to classic and vintage games from back in the past, for some good dose of nostalgia and for newbies to learn about the roots of modern gaming.

That being said, the topics for discussion are:

- Classic games.
- Abandonware.
- Classic console games and their system emulators.
- Support for running older games on modern systems.

Resources:

- Internet Archive: Play classic MSDOS games such as Prince Of Persia, Aladdin, Leisure Suit Larry and more in your browser.
- Romhacking.net: Resource for pretty much all ROMs and emulators for almost every system.
- Abandonware.net: Largest abandonware site in the world.
- DOSBox: Open source DOS emulator for running older DOS games.

chimera301
Member

Ah those games...

Had only reached 4th level of original Prince of Persia.

Had reached 7th level of Dangerous Dave.

Had completed Wolfenstein 3D and Spear of Destiny, Bomberman, Hercules.

Desmond Davis
Destroy Erase Improve

I beat Prince Of Persia several times. I haven't beat Prince Of Persia 2: The Shadow And The Flame yet, same for Prince Of Persia 3D.

Wolfenstein 3D I have beat three episodes. Hitler is the final boss at the end of the third episode. Spear Of Destiny I beat completely, the end level where the walls change is awesome.

Hercules and Bomberman I only played the demo.

YurekaBlk
waiting in Tomorrowland...

Nice thread. Sticked for some time for visibility.

List of few of my old games that I used to love are following (from top of my mind):

Mario and Contra (of course, duh): Used to arrange Rs 1 coins and go berserk in some video game parlor, going gaga over every time I use to save Peach. Contra was awesome. I use to effing shout whenever I use to get that "S" gun powerup. The horizontal level, the vertical level, the level where our movement was restricted (couldn't jump) and have to shoot enemies from above. Damn Contra was so much fun.

Metal Slug 3: I had almost forgotten about this game when I recently found it on Steam. That game has a big nostalgia factor. At the time I didn't know it was Japanese game. The artworks makes so much sense now. Just look at the sprites of a single character from Metal Slug 3 and you shall know how great the game must have felt playing. Link: Metal Slug 3

My PC master race gaming began when I got access to a Pen 3 PC at my relative. I use to play many games on them like:

Carmageddon 3D: I have spend countless hours running through killing all cars to finish the level (never attempted to just race through them) and most hours trying to kill all those pesky zombies. Just blowing myself up with dynamites and then repairing the car by pressing backspace. I could never finish the level 7 where you had to blow up all tanks on a warship (it was time limit based).

Star Wars Rogue Squadron: This classic... I played this game when I was not even introduced to Star Wars series. This game blew my mind. The air combat use to be unparalleled to my child's brain. And the music... I knew it was something epic.

Harry Potter and the Chamber of secrets: This was probably first EA game I played. This game was the single most reason I attribute failing of 1st year of my college. Finished this game many times.

Join the discussion at:

Web: geek.digit.in | Forum: geek.digit.in/community

Facebook: facebook.com/digitgeek