

Vocalytics analyzes

The new Vocalytics analyzes project tries to understand your body language to make you a better public speaker. <http://digit.in/Vocalytics>

Star Wars: Empire at War

Star Wars: Empire at War update brings back multiplayer support for both the core game and the Forces of Corruption expansion. <http://digit.in/MultiStarwars> for a DVD drive. This includes my Corsair 460x. In fact, I have to go to the local cyber cafe with my pen drive to copy your DVD contents on to it so I can access it. In your high-end gaming rig, you've suggested a Corsair 570x with a DVD drive, but it doesn't have a bay, so please fix that.

I am still shaken by the cost of the memory you have in your primary Digit rig – the entire rig setup of a friend of mine cost less than just your RAM!

Also, no offence, but I found this edition of Digit to be quite boring.

–Broady

d Whoops. Looks like we when we changed the recommendation from the Cooler Master MasterCase to the Corsair 570X and forgot to remove the DVD drive. Thanks for pointing out the error. DVDs and CDs maybe dead for most of us in the big cities, they're very much in demand in Tier II and III cities. Which is why products such as motherboards and laptops still come with driver disks. It's also the reason why we're still giving one DVD for free with each issue. As for the memory in the primary Digit Rig, it was imported and is no longer locally available. Hence, the massive price. All other rigs are locally sourced for pricing.

–Mithun

I'm writing this mail to let you know that I have not received the Fast Track to Consoles in the March 2017 Edition of Digit. I should've noticed earlier but I was too busy indulging in the awesomeness of your magazine (:P). Please send me one if you have it as I want to read your take on consoles.

–Radhika Katiki

Wow, it might not actually be available anymore. We will check. We'll try and send you one from our personal collection. Best to report these things as soon as possible.

–Robert

I've been an avid reader of your magazine for the past 7 years, but have never written before. The September issue was just wow! I especially liked the cover story, because it's something that we all went through one time or another.

I also wanted to let you know that I stood first in the regional finals at the TCS ITWiz quiz in Indore, and your mag played a major role, thank you. I also recommended Digit in the interview and it got published in newspapers and also aired on TV.

–Animesh Harsh

Really well done! It's really sweet of you to thank us for your own successes, but we know that your achievements are yours alone. You're awesome because of your own aptitude, interests and passion. And thank you from the bottom of our hearts for helping promote Digit, so few people do that. Hats off to you sir!

–Robert

Letter of the Month

I've been a fan of this magazine for 7 years. I've just started buying it again and I am disappointed.

First: You need better Fast Track topics. For example, the current one on Apple Ecosystem 2... Who reads about such a deeply boring subject? Why not make a Fast Track to Android Game Development or Ethical Hacking – make it full technology and computer course book.

Second: About the dmystify, we haven't paid money for a boring science lecture. Change it to a book about software, games and various useful sites, or convert it to "Tips & Tricks Book".

Third: Why the f are you sending games and softwares which are for kids? We are hardcore gamers, and software can be easily downloaded from Filehippo. Instead include some good games for android and PC that cannot be easily downloaded such as Sims 4, Far Cry, NFS, Jade Empire for Android, etc. I liked it better when you had 2 or 3 DVDs with Photoshop software and programming tutorials. Please increase the DVDs. Only if you do this will I feel I am getting my old favourite Digit magazine, or else you will have died for me.

–Golu Singh

I'm sorry you didn't enjoy your return to Digit better. Not every Fast Track topic is going to appeal to everyone. However, it's important to read and know about Apple, even if you will never buy their products, because they're a very important part of technology. Our current Fast Track is on Android, maybe you will enjoy that better. We've done Fast Tracks to all of the topics you're asking for already – look through the archives.

I can understand that you have an aversion to science and thus don't like the dmystify. It's not for everyone, that is true. We do hope we are doing a more interesting job than your textbooks though!

Lastly, about the DVD, we constantly change the software we give because we have to think of our subscribers first, who get it every month, and thus need to be given different software and content every month. Buying Digit once in a while will always be a hit and miss affair, because we might have given what you wanted the previous month or the next. We also try and bring you lesser known software that are just as good. Hopefully you will like this month's DVD better. And I'll be honest – apart from special issues, sorry, but we're not going back to the 2 and 3 DVD days again.

Thank you for reading.

–Robert

