

Animated Addams Family

Conrad Vernon, co-director of R-rated Sausage Party, will direct a long-in-development animated version of The Addams Family for MGM <http://digit.in/addamsmovie>

Gambit gets release date

The Gambit movie is finally happening, with a release date of February 14, 2019, and Gore Verbinski in charge. <http://digit.in/gambithemovie>

>> Feedback for the October 2017 issue of Digit

Send your feedback at editor@digit.in

It been just two months since I've started reading Digit but I find it amazing. I just read the article on video editing on page 36 of the Oct 2017 issue. Those were some great apps you mentioned but I'd like to recommend some more because I am a YouTuber who doesn't have a PC or laptop, so I too have to make and edit all content on my smartphone. I'm a little disappointed that you skipped a few basic apps like:

- 1.VivaVideo Pro, for video editing
- 2.KineMaster Pro, for video editing
- 3.Legend and Animoto, for intro making
- 4.VideoShow, for video editing

My channel is called Monster Tech. Do check it out. And how about doing a separate article or a FastTrack on essentials for a new YouTuber.

Thanks for the magazine.

—Shaswat singh

Those are indeed some good apps Shaswat. Funny you should mention a FastTrack on YouTube-ing, because we've done one at the start of this year in Feb. Guess it was before you got into Digit-ing. Do keep writing in with your valuable feedback. And thanks a ton for your app suggestions.

—Siddharth

I first decided to write to you in 2014 but looks like I got around to it three whole years later 😊 First of all thank you for creating such a great magazine. It's like every time I miss an issue of Digit, I feel that I missed out on a lot of knowledge (and fun). But hard luck, I cannot afford to buy it every month. Last time I read Digit was back in May 2016 – the issue where Siddharth was talking about that precious solitary home-button on the iPhone. 😊

Recently thanks to the festive season I got some cash and decided to buy the September issue. Noticed so much change! Things feel more organised in the redesign. And yeah I was searching for Skoar only to find it in the back pages 😊 The DVDs are great. Dmystify is the "chotta packet bada dhamaaka" and my favorite. And the posters are 😊

I have some ideas to make Digit even better. How about having a surprise element in every issue? Like changing design for every few issues. Be different and bold and change things up. Surprise readers with what is gonna be coming in the next issue. Think out of the box. Be unpredictable. Be awesome as you have always been.

—Aditya Patnaik

Ok here's something unpredictable – even though yours is not the letter of the month you still get a surprise gift from us! (Hey we tried).

—Team Digit

Hi Team Digit!

First things first – you are Wow!

I remember the days when my brother used to buy Digit back at home and I used to check the CDs out. Fascinated by the paper quality of the magazine I started reading the lines and soon I was reading between the lines. It's been so many years, Siddharth looks different, Robert still won't smile (This is what my brother and I used to imitate, if ever we achieve such a position). Moving on, dmystify is awesome – Game Theory explanation was really great. I never really understood the concept so clearly. I had high expectations from my professor but it's good that finally I could understand it. Thank you for that.

Can we have posters from some famous Sci-fi movies or much better some funny science posters or maybe some TV series cough GOT cough posters? Because not everyone is interested in games (don't be judgemental, please! PLEASE).

The article about Gateways to Hell, I don't think I have ever seen a geographic section in a tech magazine. Yass! Messing with people using tech – extra awesome!

Keep rocking.

With love & light.

—Shruti Burman

You are wow too! You'll be happy to know that some members of Team Digit aren't gamers either cough Arnab cough. So no judgement here. 😊 Good idea about Sci-fi posters and TV series posters. We'll look into that for sure some time soon.

—Siddharth

Hey Sid,

I've been reading Digit for about a decade, and I'm a huge fan of your columns and articles. I find your book, movie and music recommendations absolutely fantastic. Is there a way I can get all of them at one place?

—E|e<trO|!On (via forum)

Oh wow ! I had no idea someone would like my recommendations so