More of Wolverine in upcoming comics

Back in 2014's Death of Wolverine issue, Wolverine had died until he reappeared at the end of Marvel Legacy #1 and got his hands on one of the Infinity Stones. Now, he's going to reappear in "post-credits scenes" January onwards, revealing how he came back to life and why does he have a frigging Infinity Stone with him. <http://dgit.in/WolvBack>

WHAT'S NEW

Zack Snyder supports a director's cut for Justice League

Just like Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice, Justice League received a lot of flak from the audience worldwide.

Recent leaks suggest that a lot of scenes were changed and even deleted by Warner Bros. in order to reduce the running time. Going through the list of these supposed edits clearly show the wider scope of the universe that director Snyder is trying to build. For the complete experience, fans are now demanding a director's cut. The same happened with Batman v Superman, so we know that WB is capable of pulling it off. A petition for it has over 100,000 signatures at the time of writing this.

Apart from amassing such a huge support, fans needed the attention of a prime member in this discussion and they finally got it. Zack Snyder himself has come forward to show his support through a tiny "like" on a post about the petition shared on Vero. <http://dgit.in/SnyderCut>

Weapon H gets his own comic book series

A new mutant has been in the works for some time and considering his popularity, a standalone series has been announced. The mutant-hunter organisation Weapon X had come up with a new mutant-killer, naming it Weapon H. The new hybrid mutant made from the DNA of Hulk and Wolverine is as crazy as comic books can get. We haven't seen the full potential of the insane character which primarily combines the infinite strength, size, and endurance of the Hulk, and Wolverine's claw and healing abilities. Additionally,

Weapon H also gets the powers of Domino, Lady Deathstrike, Sabretooth and Warpath. The character was first introduced in the crossover series between Weapon X and Totally Awesome Hulk called Weapon of Mutant Destruction. The series is being taken forward by writer Greg Pak and artist Cory Smith who have been responsible for the character's creation. Editor Darren Shan said that Weapon H will be going head-on against the biggest threats in the Marvel Universe and the first issue is expected in March 2018. <http://dgit.in/WeaponH>
